

Susan is a born teacher. She kindly shares her wealth of knowledge in a patient and hands-on way, allowing the student to feel comfortable while exploring the process. After completing her workshop I felt confident to experiment with formulations, oils and butters, natural colorants and scented soap. Susan was always available to help with any questions I had as I started my journey.

When I was considering learning how to make soap and start a business, I knew I wanted to learn from the best, so I flew across the country to study under Susan. The time I spent with her was an experience I'll always treasure.

Learning from her allowed me to bypass the frustration and struggle of trying to do it myself and taught me EXACTLY what I needed to know in order to not only make soap but also run a successful business. What she taught me saved me time, money, and energy and put me on the fast path to confidently build my dream business.

Susan is generous, knowledgeable, patient, encouraging, kind, and a natural-born teacher. Her approach includes clear and simple instruction combined with hands-on demonstrations.

My investment in her class has paid for itself over and over again and studying under her was one of the best decisions I've ever made. I have an amazing product that my customers love. My business gives me creative freedom, additional income, and the satisfaction of having built something I'm so proud of. All thanks to Susan. I am forever grateful.
